The Kao Group's Activities

To advance Group-wide health and productivity management, Kao provides equitable opportunities for its employees and their families to receive health support under medium-term five-year health plans to ensure a systematic approach to health and productivity management. Health administration staff and persons responsible for health administration are assigned to each business location and branch office and coordinate with industrial health staff. Kao's Health Promotion Management System, in operation since fiscal 2009, compiles anonymized statistical health data (on medical interviews, health check-ups, occupations, illnesses, etc.). This data is also provided to 21 health consultation centers throughout Japan to help enable drafting and implementing plans based on actual conditions and issues in each area.

Based on changes in work style and lifestyle today, Kao is helping create a "new normal" of using a hybrid of in-person and online services. Kao also suggests activities personalized for individuals and utilizes the online community to advance efforts to connect people in far-away places and increase mutual wellbeing through its own GENKI-WEB health platform.

In addition, Kao's health solutions program, the Kao GENKI Project for Everyone, brings together in-house health care knowledge and visualization technology. The project also offers partial services outside the company and is being used to improve the health of local communities and of other companies.
